Regions

Regional Tea Collection

The regionally grown tea is a refreshing cup of tea that brings its own unique flavor. The quality of the tea is dependent on the elevation at which it was grown and the season during which it was harvested.

We give you 5 uniquely flavored regional cups;

Ruhuna (Low-grown)

Ruhunu tea is a high-quality golden tea grown in the southern province of the island. It is naturally malty with a strong dark brew, giving you a creamy cup of tea.

Kandy (Medium-grown)

Kandy tea is a special type of black tea with a rich, full-bodied flavor. When brewed, it leaves a copper-colored cup with an intense body and lingering aroma.

Uva (High & Medium-grown)

A unique tea that provides a robust and bold taste and aroma. Cultivated in the Eastern slopes of Sri Lanka, this tea when brewed departs a reddish-golden hue and tastes refreshingly exotic.

Dimbula (High-grown)

Dimbula Tea is a highly aromatic, mellow tea that produces a fine golden-orange hue in the cup.

Nuwaraeliya (High-grown)

Awaken to the beauty of Nuwaraeliya with a cup of the light golden-hued tea. This delicate-flavored tea is grown in plantations at an altitude of 6,000ft above sea level.
