2 Organic Sector of Sri Lanka

2.1 Overview

Sri Lanka, affectionately called the pearl of the Indian Ocean, is a tear drop shaped island of 65,000sq KM, located just 30 KM South-East of the Indian subcontinent. Moderate climate throughout the year, fertile soil, freely available ground water with a well distributed river network in most parts and two monsoons which bring rains for the two main cultivation seasons are the key ecological factors of the country. With these ideal conditions, the agriculture sector has always performed as a major economic force in Sri Lanka, making a significant contribution to the national economy, food security and employment.

Agricultural production

The primary form of agriculture of Sri Lanka is rice production. Tea is cultivated in the central highlands and is a major source of foreign exchange. Coconut, vegetables, fruits, and spices are also cultivated in the country. Around eighty different varieties of fruits and vegetables are grown in Sri Lanka's varied agro-climatic areas.

The cool and salubrious climatic conditions in the hill country are ideal for temperate crops such as carrot, leek, cabbage, cauliflower, salad leaves, beet, bean, bell pepper, and salad cucumber. The well-demarcated low country and dry wet areas are suitable for a variety of tropical fruits and vegetables ranging from green chili, red onion, pumpkin, bitter gourd, melon, sweet and sour banana types, queen pineapple, papaya, mango, lemon and gherkins. Sri Lanka produces more than 800,000 metric tons of fruits and vegetables annually and exports both fresh and processed varieties to many destinations in the world.

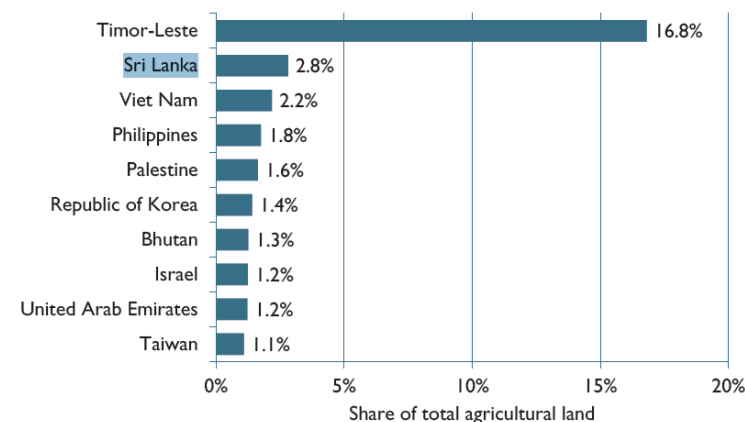

Organic production

For more than 30 years, Sri Lanka has exported a range of certified organic products. The country is considered one of the organic pioneers in the Asian region, introducing organically certified tea and cinnamon to the world market. According to "The World of Organic Agriculture" statistical yearbook of 2020, Sri Lanka was the Asian country with the second highest organic share of the total organic agricultural land in 2018, amounting to 77,169 hectares. 591 hectares of organic land focuses on tropical and subtropical fruit. 129 hectares of land have been converted to organic land for vegetable farming.

Asia: The countries with the highest organic share of total agricultural land 2018

Source: FiBL survey 2020

The official total number of organic producers amounted to 1,416 in 2018, although it is estimated that the actual figure of organic producers is much higher (the National Organic Control Union NOCU assumes that there are 12,000 organic producers in the country). In 2019, 155 new producers were organic certified. There are also 313 exporters and 879 processors of organic produce in Sri Lanka. They engage in their own cultivation or are involved in out-grower systems, often with smallholder producers. Organic tea and coconut are mainly produced on large-scale farms while organic vegetables are mainly produced by smallholders. Organic fruits and spices are produced by both large farms and smallholders.

Organic exports

The volume of organic exports from Sri Lanka increased from 4,200 MT in 2007 to 44,300 MT in 2018. Organic exports from Sri Lanka to the world increased from EURO 171.63 million in 2014, to EURO 258.67 million in 2018. The European Union (EU) imported 26,570 MT of agri-food products from Sri Lanka in 2018, and the country holds the 26th position among countries supplying organic foods to the EU. The EU has been an important trading partner and continues to be a key destination for Sri Lankan exports.

A list of organic exporters from Sri Lanka, categorized according to their main product group, can be found in Annexure 1.

Major export destinations of organic produce from Sri Lanka in their order of importance are USA, Germany, UK, Japan, France, Sweden, Australia, Canada, Belgium, Austria, and the Netherlands. In 2017, Sri Lanka gained access to the GSP+ (Generalized Scheme of Preferences) arrangement which provides tariff-free market access to the European market. This scheme will continue until 2023.

Furthermore, Sri Lanka has signed Preferential and Free Trade Agreements with India, Pakistan and Singapore. The country has also signed the Asia Pacific Trade Agreement, the Global System of Trade Preferences among Developing Countries (GSTP), the South Asian Free Trade Agreement (SAFTA), and the South Asian Preferential Trade Area (SAPTA).

Political support

The National Policy Framework “Vistas of Prosperity and Splendor” from 2019 explicitly mentions initiatives to promote the production of organic agriculture products in Sri Lanka, to cater to domestic and export markets. These initiatives include introducing an internationally accepted organic product certification system in Sri Lanka, producing organic fertilizer of high standards, developing two million home gardens, and significantly expanding the organic agriculture land. In line with this trend, positive yield developments, increased production and value-addition of organic agricultural products are expected.

In June 2020, the government issued a gazette notification, declaring the Moragahakanda-Kaluganga Mahaweli “F” Zone in the Central Province as a sustainable agricultural development area. The objective is to promote organic vegetables, fruits and other field crops in this zone, free from agrochemicals and pesticides; to ensure sustainable usage of soil through soil conservation methods of setting stone bunds and biological hedges, and to promote water conservation in farming for the preservation of irrigated water and its efficient use.

What Makes Sri Lankan Organic Products Special?

Strengths of the Sri Lankan organic sector

- Hundreds of well-established organic producers and farmer networks, processors and exporters across the island
- Broad expertise and know-how available in the private sector on organic food and agriculture
- Skilled labor
- Many processors are additionally certified according to quality schemes such as HACCP and ISO 22,000; product quality is high
- Local companies have for many years been engaged in the value-addition of organic agriculture products
- Private sector expertise in soil analysis and digitalization of agriculture value-chains available
- Supply chains for the export market are short and well managed
- Indigenous knowledge / farm management practices of organic producers greatly facilitate the compliance with organic standards
- Good availability of local resources such as land
- Diverse climatic conditions from tropical to temperate within the country that enable cultivation of a range of organic products
- Natural quality attributes in Sri Lankan products e.g. higher piperine content in Sri Lankan pepper and no coumarin (carcinogenic compound) presence in Ceylon Cinnamon, unique taste of coconut products

Opportunities in the Sri Lankan organic sector

- Still increasing demand for organic products in domestic, regional, and international markets
- Production and processing of further organic products, e.g. aquaculture, aromatic and medicinal plants, ingredients for organic cosmetics
- Government’s increasing emphasis on organic agriculture and policy framework which aims to promote and popularize organic farming

2.2 Major Organic Food Products in Sri Lanka

- Essential oils and Extracts
- Herbs and herbal preparations; Medicinal Herbs
- Tropical fruit
- Vegetables and Tubers
- Cashew
- Oil seeds
- Pulses
- Rice
- Coffee
- Cocoa
- Wild Harvest Products
- Kithul Treacle and Jaggery
- Rubber

Food Category	Description
Organic Tea	Sri Lankan tea, recognized globally as Ceylon Tea, is renowned for its high quality, aroma and taste. The first organic tea estate worldwide was certified organic in Sri Lanka. The country is the second biggest organic tea producer and exporter in the world. It has a multitude of smaller, organic single-origin tea producing estates throughout the country. Mostly found in Dimbula and Uva regions, organic tea cultivation is still in the fledgling state in Sri Lanka compared to the larger Ceylon Tea Industry, which is one of the most valuable in the world. Currently, approximately 365,000 operators are cultivating tea in Sri Lanka, with a total of 21 export-oriented companies specializing in organic Ceylon tea. Most of the organic tea producers in Sri Lanka have also adopted fair trade agriculture practices and are committed to building a thriving community among its plantation workers. The Organic Ceylon Tea industry specializes in producing black, green, silver tip teas in bulk as well as processed, value-added and flavoured teas. More information can be found on the website of the Sri Lanka Tea Board and the Tea Exporters' Association.

Organic Coconut	Coconut is another main export product of Sri Lanka. About 10,000 ha of coconut plantations have been certified as organic to date. Major organic coconut-based products include desiccated coconut, coconut chips (raw, toasted), coconut milk, cream coconut, (virgin) coconut oil, coconut water, flour and coconut milk powder. As of 2018, the total land area used for coconut cultivation amounted to 443,528 hectares. Total production was 2623 million coconuts. At present, there are 167,000 coconut growing operators with export-oriented plantations.
Organic Spices	Sri Lanka is well known for the variety and quality of spices it provides. From Pure Ceylon Cinnamon to cardamom, pepper, cloves, nutmeg, ginger, turmeric, vanilla and various others, the spice exports of Sri Lanka are at an all-time high. Spice products also include mixtures, essential oils such as cinnamon oil and oleoresins. The major export destinations for spice products from Sri Lanka are India, Mexico, USA, and Germany.
Organic Herbs	Sri Lanka is a country full of biodiversity, gifted with many plant resources. It has been reported that there are close to 3,800 flowering plant species grown in Sri Lanka. Out of them, 1430 species are considered to have medicinal value. Around 250 species are commonly used in traditional medicine. A wide variety of herbs is grown in the country, including Lemongrass, Katarodu (Clitoriaternatea), Hathawariya (Asparagus racemosus), Welpenela (Cardiospermumhalicacabum), Gotukola (Centellaasiatica), Eramusu (Hemidesmusindicus), Belimal (Aeglemarmelos flowers), Ranawara (Senna auriculata), Garcinia leaves (Garciniacambogia) and Soursop leaf. Some of these are turned into essential oils (e.g. lemongrass oil, citronella oil, cinnamon leaf oil...).
Organic Fruits and vegetables	Produced by autonomous clusters of farmers, around eighty different fruit and vegetables are grown in Sri Lanka. They collectively produce 800,000 MT of fruit and vegetable annually, which is exported overseas. Sri Lankan organic fruit exports (mainly tropical fruits like mango, papaya, pineapple, banana, passionfruit, lime, jackfruit, and mixes of these fruits) include fresh fruits, dehydrated fruits, fruit cocktails, fruits in brine, fruit juices, fruit pieces in natural juices, fruit sauce, fruit smoothie, fruit pulp, fruit puree, pickles, chutneys, frozen fruits, cubes, etc. Organic vegetables grown in Sri Lanka include carrots, beets, broccoli, cabbage, Chinese cabbage, tomato, capsicum, red cabbage, leeks, kohlrabi, potato, radish and green chilies.

Organic Fruits and vegetables (cont.)	The country also offers super foods such as Moringa leaf (powder, tea, capsules), Bitter gourd (powder, tea, capsules), pumpkin seeds and powder, as well as coconut treacle / Kithul products. The supply base consists of small farmer networks, commercial farms, agro-zone projects, central collecting centres, and provisional wholesale markets. 65% of the fresh produce from Sri Lanka is exported to the Middle East and the Maldives, and about 98% of processed fruit and vegetable products are exported to the European market.
Other Organic Products	Cashew, Pulses, Rice, Coffee, Cocoa, Tamarind Wild Harvest Products, e.g. honey Rubber
Further Organic Potential	Aquaculture Aromatic and medicinal plants Ingredients for cosmetics

2.3 Certification, Standards, and Quality Schemes in Sri Lanka for Organic Food Exports (to the EU)

Organic Certification

Organic producers and processors in Sri Lanka are certified according to EU, USDA NOP and JAS organic regulations. A few operators are also certified according to the Korean, Indian and/or Chinese Organic Standards.

Several internationally accredited certification bodies operate in Sri Lanka:

- Control Union, Sri Lanka / The Netherlands
- Ecocert, India / France
- NASAA Certified Organic (NCO), Australia
- Lacon, Germany
- QAI, Quality Assurance International, USA
- OneCert, USA
- MayaCert, Guatemala

Some operators are additionally certified according to private standards such as Naturland, demeter, BioSuisse and Soil Association, and may also bear a fair-trade label.

Other Certifications

In addition to the organic certification, many organic operators are certified according to several other quality schemes / standards:

- ISO 22000 Food safety management scheme
- Hazard Analysis and Critical Control Point (HACCP) certification
- Good Agricultural Practices (Global GAP) Certificate
- Good Manufacturing Practices (GMP) certification
- British Retail Consortium Global Standard (BRCGS)

Organic operators in Sri Lanka also possess the necessary Phytosanitary Certificate, Fumigation certificate (as far as permitted under the various organic regulations and required by the importer) and Health Certificate. Furthermore, where applicable, they follow the EU marketing standards for fruit and vegetables.

3 Procedure for importing organic agriculture produce from Sri Lanka

3.1 Export Regulations in Sri Lanka

The organic exporter will provide the following certificates which are considered mandatory when importing organic agriculture produce to the EU from Sri Lanka:

Certification	Issuing Authority
1. EU organic certification	Recognized control body
2. Certificate of Origin (CO/COO)	Department of Commerce (for all COO under all GSP Schemes, Free Trade Agreements (FTAs) and Preferential Trading Agreements (PTAs)); International Chamber of Commerce, Ceylon Chamber of Commerce or National Chamber of Commerce
3. Preferential Country of Origin – For the EU's Generalised Scheme of Preferences (GSP) Scheme	Department of Commerce

The exporter in Sri Lanka can also submit the documents mentioned below:

Certification	Issuing authority
1. Quality certificates such as HACCP, Global GAP, GMP, or any other certification	Recognized control body
2. Health certificate	Food Control Administration Unit (FCAU) of Sri Lanka
3. Phytosanitary certificate	National Plant Quarantine Service
4. Fumigation certificates	National Plant Quarantine Service

When importing from Sri Lanka, the following product-specific license/certificates will be required:

Product type	License / Permits / Certificates	Responsible authority for license/certificate
Tea products	In the instance of importing bulk tea from Sri Lanka to the EU, it is necessary to obtain a Certification of Averages Auction Price (AAP). A quality certificate for each shipment will be required as well.	Sri Lanka Tea Board - Regulatory body for the Sri Lankan tea industry.
Coconut products	A permit will be required for the export of desiccated coconuts, fresh coconuts, and coconut leaf-based products.	Coconut Development Authority (CDA) - Regulatory body for the Sri Lankan coconut industry.
Fruits and vegetables	A phytosanitary certificate issued by the National Plant Quarantine Service is mandatory when importing to the EU.	National Plant Quarantine Department (NPQD) in Sri Lanka.
Spices	All spices imports into the EU will be accompanied by a Country of Origin certificate. Sri Lankan companies that export cinnamon to the EU will require a license to use the Pure Ceylon Cinnamon logo. Pre-inspection certificates will be mandatory as well.	The responsible authority for spices and the allied products section is the Department of Commerce and the Chamber of Commerce. Additionally, the Export Development Board is responsible for issuing the Pure Ceylon Cinnamon logo.

Please refer to Annexure 3 for contact information of product-specific responsible authorities.

Items under License Control in Sri Lanka

Items that are prohibited or restricted for exports from Sri Lanka include protected plants listed under the Fauna and Flora Protection Ordinance.

Sampling

To ensure that the products comply with stipulated health and safety regulations and quality requirements, a sample of a product can be sent before the transaction for a specified quantity takes place. Trade samples that amount to Rs 50,000 (equivalent to approx. 220 EUR) or less can be imported from Sri Lanka to Europe without restrictions and the exporter will only be required to submit a customs declaration form.

Certificate of Inspection

The electronic certificate of inspection (e-COL) is issued by the control bodies designated by the EU. The issuing of the certificate can be initiated by the importer, the exporter or the control body of the exporter.

Sri Lanka Customs Procedure

Customs Goods Declaration

Depending on the product to be exported, applicable customs levies include EDB Cess, Rubber Development Levy, Coconut Development Levy, Tea Board Cess and export duty. The exporter indicates the Customs Procedure Code (CPC), which will be used in the calculation of the customs levies. Further, the exporter declares if the CPC is an outright export, export under Temporary Import for Export Processing (TIEP) goods scheme, export under rebate scheme, temporary export, re-exports, BOI-re exports, re-exports of TIEP goods, or re-exports of Investor Facilitation Center (INFAC) goods.

Commercial Invoice

The invoice presented by the exporter will state the selling price, the costs involved in freight, insurance, packing, terms of delivery and payment. According to the value of goods stated, the government will be able to determine the true value of goods assessing customs duties.

Packing List

The foreign customs officials use the packing list to check the cargo and thus the commercial invoice should reflect the information shown on the packing list.

EU Customs Procedure

Certain EU Member States will have specific custom requirements when importing. Accordingly, the custom procedures, documents, laws, and regulations will differ somewhat from each EU Member State. Service providers that offer freight forwarding and custom broker services will complete the customs process for the Sri Lankan exporter (please see Annexure 2 for a list of service providers).

3.2 Infrastructure of Supply Chains

Storage and Warehouse facilities

Specialized freight forwarders will offer cold-chain management services, including refrigerated warehousing, storage and transport for perishable agriculture produce. 3PL and 4PL freight forward providers based in Sri Lanka offer cooling and warehousing facilities for exporters. Additionally, service providers offer services such as the collection of goods and transportation to the warehouse for relevant customs procedures, preparation for shipment, handling of international haulage, shipping and air freight, and the transportation of goods to the destination. A list of freight forwarders operating in Sri Lanka and their contact details can be found in Annexure 2.

Sea Cargo

Sri Lanka is located at the intersection of major international shipping routes and is considered as a transshipment hub in the Asian region, where many global shipping companies consolidate and de-consolidate their cargo for re-export. The major ports include Colombo (West, largest port in the country), Hambantota (South), Trincomalee (East; fifth largest natural harbour in the world) and Galle (South).

Air Cargo

Sri Lanka has two international airports: Colombo (Bandaranaike International Airport) in the West, and Hambantota (Rajapaksa International Airport) in the South. Several international airlines service the country daily, e.g. SriLankan, Turkish, Emirates, Qatar, and Etihad.

4 Support of importers through the develoPPP.de Programme

The develoPPP programme was set up by the German Federal Ministry for Economic Cooperation and Development (BMZ) over 20 years ago to foster the involvement of the private sector in areas where business opportunities and development policy initiatives overlap. To this end, BMZ offers financial and technical support for companies that want to do business or have already begun operating in developing and emerging market countries. The programme and the company wishing to engage in such a project will equally share the costs of the project.

The BMZ supports the company's innovative projects and commercial investments in developing and emerging-market countries, provided that they offer long-term benefits for the local community.

Projects typically cover a wide range of themes – from training local experts and piloting innovative technologies and demonstration units to protecting value chains and improving a company's environmental and social standards.

The applying company will work with one of the two official partners commissioned by BMZ to implement the program on its behalf: DEG – Deutsche Investitions- und Entwicklungsgesellschaft mbH, or the Deutsche Gesellschaft für Internationale Zusammenarbeit (GIZ) GmbH.

Services offered for develoPPP projects by GIZ Sri Lanka

- Capacity Development and Technical Advice in the field and along the value chain: Developing training plans, hiring trainers, organize workshops, training events and training materials on organic agriculture and conversion, setting up demo plots, and train companies in improved processing techniques and in exporting procedures
- Support with sustainability certification and traceability: Organization of farmer groups for commercial viability / certification and development of a traceability system in exporting procedures
- Support in procuring equipment / training in the maintenance of equipment
- Access to Networks: Access to established contacts and access to local governments as well as access to global markets, investment opportunities and scaling products and services across regions and continents, including connection with similar GIZ projects worldwide
- Project Preparation, Implementation, Steering, Monitoring, Evaluation and Upscaling of Project Activities

Examples of Public Private Partnerships in the organic sector in Sri Lanka

Api Jamu GmbH (2018-2019), a German startup importing processed jackfruit from producers and cooperatives around Jaffna to Germany. Through this partnership, 55 farmers were able to obtain organic certification, enabling them to supply to the EU market through a local processing company, Orient Lanka Pvt Ltd.

MERIS GmbH (2018-2020) and their premium organic spices brand Soul Spice: The project aims at creating market linkages for small-scale organic spice producers in Uva province. Through the partnership, Meris GmbH and GIZ worked on the business strategies, branding, marketing, budgeting, developing an ideal product portfolio and ensuring access to markets.

Further success stories of the develoPPP programme can be found on the official webpage.

Annexure 1

Portfolio of Export-Oriented Companies in the Sri Lankan Organic Sector

There are several hundred Sri Lankan companies which are involved in the export of organic products. The companies listed below have given their consent to being included in this brochure. Their inclusion does not represent, however, an endorsement by the publishing organizations.

The Export Development Board (EDB) offers a database of Sri Lankan exporters in the organic agriculture sector, which can be found at <https://www.srilankabusiness.com/exporters-directory/keyword/organic/>.

For up to date information, it is recommended to get in contact with EDB, the German Chamber of Commerce (AHK) or GIZ (please see Annex 5 for contact details).
